The Calle 24 Latino Cultural District's richness of culture, history, and entrepreneurship is unrivaled. Located in San Francisco's Mission District, with a highly concentrated Latino population, Calle 24 has the greatest number of Latino cultural landmarks, businesses, institutions, music, theater, festivals, and festival routes in the City. Its culturally diverse population has roots from across the Americas: 49% of the population self-identified as Latino in the 2012 Census, 38% identified as immigrants, and 16% identified as linguistically isolated. Chicano and Latino activism, arts, commerce and culture have centered in Calle 24 Latino Cultural District since the 1940s. Small and family-owned businesses along the Calle 24 corridor promote and preserve a living Latino culture. Visually distinct, around 400 murals adorn its buildings, most depicting the Latino experience. All these cultural assets now face rapid displacement. San Francisco's Mayor and Board of Supervisors established the Latino Cultural District to preserve Calle 24 as the center of Latino culture and commerce in San Francisco, and as a special place for visitors and residents.

Calle 24's Programs

LAND USE, DESIGN & HOUSING

- Creating a Special Use District ("SUD") in and/or around the San Francisco Latino Cultural District (the "District") that establishes height limits and design guidelines that preserve the unique character of the District, and helping to operate the SUD once established.
- Educating about and advocating for genuinely affordable and low-income housing and related infrastructure in the District, including promoting education about financial literacy, home ownership, and tenants' rights.
- Engaging in activism and advocacy to ensure that new development in San Francisco's Mission District responds to and reflects the traditions and cultures in the Latino Cultural District.

ECONOMIC VITALITY

- Providing technical and lease education, training and assistance for small business in the District.
- Attracting and retaining culturally relevant businesses
- Developing a neighborhood-based communications infrastructure, and promotion of the District through traditional and social media

CULTURAL ASSETS & ARTS

- Promoting, participating in, and supporting traditional culture-critical community events, such as Carnaval, Dia de Los Muertos, and the Chavez Holiday Commemoration.
- Identifying and preserving cultural assets that exist in the District.
- Designing, sourcing and installing corridor monuments, arts projects, a walk of fame, light pole signs, and the like, in collaboration with the Economic Vitality Program.
- Fostering collaboration among Latino Cultural District arts organizations.
